SIMPLY RED

Alison Moyet, is that you? No, it was Mick Hucknall of Simply Red. The group came to Lisner on November 3rd to grace us with their unique mellow-sounding jazzy, progressive pop. Hit tune "Money's too tight to mention" kept the crowd buzzing, along with "Holdin' back the years," and other Simply Red favorites.

T. Wilson

JIMMY CLIFF

Reggae great Jimmy Cliff brought us cool runnin's on October 24th at Lisner Auditorium. "Down with war" was the soulful cry. We had a little slice of Jamaica right here in the heart of D.C. — Irie.

THE REPLACEMENTS

And when the votes were in, the results were unanimous. The Replacements were great! Paul Westerberg (singer), Slim Dunlap (guitar), Tommy Stinson (bass), and Chris Mars (drums) packed Lisner Auditorium November 18th. Keep up the good work PB!

GENE LOVES JEZEBEL

Once again, Lisner played host to a hot new musical group. This time it was January 23rd, and the band was Gene Loves Jezebel. They played such tunes as "Desire," and "The Motion of Love." Three albums and still going strong!

All Photos by Tom Wilson

THE BODEANS

The "country-ish" sounding BoDeans played at Lisner Auditorium on the night of Saturday, April 9. The band opened with a song from their first album. The song was "Fadeaway" and the crowd was blown away. They sang other favorites such as "Say You Will", "She's a Runaway", and "Misery".

BILLY BRAGG

The politically opinionated, guitar playing Billy Bragg graced the stage at Lisner Auditorium. Bragg sang his Socialist ideas out to a receptive audience on April 19, 1988. After three albums, Billy Bragg is still out there urging us to a cause.

PAUL CARR QUINTET

Jazz cats really dug the scene at George's, The Rat, as the Paul Carr Quintet jammed on February 11th. Finally, a long awaited jazz session on campus. Stay tuned for Rockin' Riffs in the future.

THE SPANISH DANCE SOCIETY

Get out your castanets and put on your dancing shoes. The Spanish Dance Society said "Hola" to GW in a festive performance on November 20th. The Dorothy Betts theater at the Marvin Center never looked so colorful as it did when the whirling feet of the Spanish dancers graced our stage.

DENNIS MILLER

The heartthrob of Saturday Night Live graced the stage at Lisner Auditorium on January 15th. HBO was there to tape the show live — twice! His name? Dennis Miller. His humor? — Sophisticated, sarcastic, side-splitting silliness. Two shows, and he was outta there.

N.Y. COMEDY NIGHTS

Rick Crom, Jeff Justice, Ed Feldman, J.J. Ramirez, John Joseph, Joe Vega, and Jeff Altman. What do these men all have in common? They entertained us with side-splitting humor in the Rat and the Market Square. A rip-roaring time was had by all in the large crowds that showed up for these nifty events. Thanks PB!

A FLEA IN HER EAR

The Dorothy Betts Memorial Theater was the home for the play "A Flea in Her Ear" the weekend of October 15, 1987. It looked like a bizarre bit of mayhem, but it all came together in the end. What resulted was an interesting portrayal of a French farcical tragedy. The period decor in particular truly left its imprint in our minds. Great work Earl Genzel — Set Designer.

All Photos courtesy of the Department of Theater and Dance

"THE HOSTAGE"

The Dorothy Betts Theater was the site of the political play "The Hostage," a story about the political strife in Ireland. Brendan Behan's play was performed on February 18th through February 20th to a full theater every time.

All Photos by Tom Wilson

It was revived on Broadway and then moved right on to GW. "The House of Blue Leaves" played at the Dorothy Betts Marvin Theater Saturday, April 17th. The show received great reviews at GW and brought much attention to visiting professor James Slaughter. This was one of the best plays ever presented at GW.

Strategic Defense Initiative — and the Reagan/Gorbachev Summit.

STENNY HOYER

The GW College Democrats have hosted a few astute speakers this past year. On March 29, Congressman Stenny Hoyer — a Democrat from Maryland — spoke in the Marvin Center to the GW-CD's. The topic for the evening was how youth groups could make a difference in the Democratic party as well as in the 1988 elections.

KIRK O'DONNEL

On April 25, Kirk O'Donnel — the Director for National Policy — spoke at the College Democrats Banquet. The banquet was held at the University Club on the third floor of the Marvin Center. Youth in the Democratic party was the topic of conversation.

A black and white photograph of a man, John Mattes, speaking at a podium. He is wearing a dark suit, a light-colored shirt, and a patterned tie. He is looking upwards and to the right, with his mouth open as if speaking. A microphone is positioned in front of him. The background is dark and out of focus.

T. Wilson

JOHN MATTES

He spoke on March 23 at a program called "Lawyers, Guns and Money." He is currently an Assistant Federal Public Defender in Miami, Florida. John Mattes played an important hand in the indictment of General Manuel Noriega of Panama as a star witness at Senate hearings. His testimony helped establish a connection between the Contra forces in Nicaragua and other Central American governments and drug smuggling operations.

REPTILE WORLD

Just when you thought it was safe to go back out on H St. . . . suddenly, before anyone knew what was happening, a reptile show appeared on the H St. terrace of the Cloyd Heck Marvin Center. The scaly creatures appeared on April 19th and as far as some were concerned, they didn't leave fast enough. We at the Cherry Tree, however, kinda liked the cute critters.

MARTHA'S MARATHON OF BIRTHDAY BARGAINS

Auctioneers sold off first picks in GW dorms and other assorted prizes on February 19th, on the 3rd floor Marvin Center in the Ballroom. The top pick in Guthridge went for $1850! All the proceeds went to the Housing Scholarship Fund.

HOMECOMING/ PEP RALLY

Another pep rally has come and gone. February 19th brought the parade of banners to the Market Square in the Marvin Center. And wow, what a turn out at the Dinner Dance — sold out! Congratulations to GW's Homecoming King — Owen Wild, and Homecoming Queen — Kelly Fitzgerald!

All photos by Barbara De Rosa

SOS/PB DANCE

WRGW's D.J.'s rocked on into the night at the SOS/PB non-alcoholic dance. The turnout was good and everyone had a rockin' time on January 17th. The Marvin Center once again played host for a festive, fun filled evening.

RHA SUITCASE PARTY

Break the chill and go for a thrill. That was the attitude of the folks who showed up on February 13th at the Marvin Center Market Square for the RHA Suitcase Party. A trip for two to Puerto Rico was the prize and by the look on this face, the reward couldn't have been greater. Just another example of that old adage: "When you least expect it, expect it."

REGGAE PARTIES

Let down those natty dreads and party. Who can forget those long, hot, Rasta nights slidin' to the sounds of the Reggae Party? The first floor Market Square was truly a tropical jam fest as GW played host to two separate Reggae nights. Hail to Jimmy Cliff, Bob Marley, Jamaica and its music.

MDA Superdance '88

Superdance '88 was a smashing success. It took place January 29th through January 30th in the Marvin Center Marketplace. 90 Students participated in the all-night jamboree, and a good time, many blisters, and tired muscles were had by all. Throughout the night, music was provided by Radiant, The Tools, and the fearless DJ's of WRGW. The proceeds — $19,846 — went to the Muscular Dystrophy Association — Good work GW!

Hartman Elliott

With the end of this Academic year comes the end of Lloyd Elliott's years as President of The George Washington University. Most of us are leaving here after only four or five years at this institution. President Elliott, on the other hand, is leaving after twenty-three years of service and dedication to GW and its community.

Lloyd Elliott began his career as a professor at Cornell University. He served as president of the University of Maine thirty years ago until his appointment at GW in 1965. Since then he has made many inroads at GW and has greatly enhanced University Center, built in 1972 — which furthered the reputation of the study of Arts & Sciences at GW —; the Gelman Library, built in 1973; as well as the Himmelfarb Library at the GW Medical School, and the Jacob Burns Memorial Library which helped put GW's Law School in a more prominent position in the scheme of things. The aforementioned accomplishments are only a few of a long list of achievements.

It is not only the members of the George Washington University Community who recognize President Elliott's strengths and talents. The Washingtonian Magazine named Elliott one of sixteen Washingtonians of the year in 1988. Regardies Magazine, recognized Elliott as well and included him in a list of two hundred and fifty people as one of Washington's Power Spectrum. The United Way is grateful to President Elliott as well. With his help, GW is now the number one University in contributions to their cause.

So as we say good-bye to President Elliott, we can not but feel a sense of remorse at his departure. We know however, that his contributions to this University will continue to be a benefit and will serve as a sense of pride for our community as a whole for years to come. We wish President Elliott the best of luck in future endeavors and hope life.

The road to success for Dr. Lloyd Hartman Elliott was not always an easy one. He worked through the hardships of the 60's with the great student unrest and protest over Vietnam. He has seen faculty come and go, tuition raised and budgets cut. Yet through it all, he had remained true to GW and an ardent proponent of its strengths.

Under the administration of President Elliott, GW has seen an increase in endowments of over two hundred million dollars. Many new buildings have been erected since President Elliott took office which have greatly increased the academic quality of GW. Among those buildings are the Smith Center, built in 1975; the Academic Center, built in 1972 — which furthered the reputation of the study of Arts & Sciences at GW —; the Gelman Library, built in 1973; as well as the Himmelfarb Library at the GW Medical School, and the Jacob Burns Memorial Library which helped put GW's Law School in a more prominent position in the scheme of things. The aforementioned accomplishments are only a few of a long list of achievements.

Salutes You.

LOVE YOUR LIFE

We Cannot
Listen to what
Others want us
To do
We must listen
To ourselves
Society
Family
Do not know what
We must do
Only we know
And only we Can do what is Right for us
So start
Right now

You Will need to Work very hard
You will need to
Overcome many obstacles
You will need to go
Against the better
Judgement of many people
You will need to
Bypass your prejudices
But you can have what you want
If you try hard enough
So start right now and
You will live
A life designed by you
And for you and you will

Wado Ryu, meaning "way of peace," is a traditional form of karate of Okinawan descent. This style's goals are directed towards strengthening the mind and body and increasing the overall awareness of the student. Wado Ryu techniques, taught by instructor Merrick Rosenberg, emphasize the use of hands and feet evenly. This style has been practiced at GWU for five years and currently has 12 students.

"The true gentleman is the man whose conduct proceeds from good will and an acute sense of propriety, and whose self-control is equal to all emergencies; who does not make the poor man conscious of his poverty, the obscure man of his obscurity, or any man of his inferiority or deformity; who is himself humbled if necessity compels him to humble another; who does not flatter wealth, cringe before power or boast of his own possessions and achievements; who speaks with frankness but always with sincerity and sympathy; whose deed follows his word; who thinks of the rights and feelings of others rather than his own; and who appears well in any company, a man with whom honor is sacred and virtue safe."

Greek Week brings us to the end of the year with a week-long series of programs designed to recognize, congratulate, and elicit participation in the many elements and aspects of fraternity and sorority membership. In addition, 1988 was the 40th Anniversary of Greek Week. Monday's activities focused on the Dean's List Reception for the 137 sorority and fraternity members who attained their respective Dean's List. The key note address was given by Dr. Sheldon Steinbach of the American Council of Education. Tuesday brought a volleyball tournament, with special thanks to the Smith Center, and inductions into The Order of Omega, the academic and leadership honor society. Wednesday, the graduating presidents received awards from GWUSA and SAO. Thursday was movie night, with special thanks to the PB. Friday night was the always exciting and semi-theatrical Greek God and Goddess contest. Saturday featured the "Olympic Games" that included banner and chariot contest and the obligatory tug-of-war. On Sunday, the awards were announced; the trophies presented and the recipients appropriately celebrated. On the following Monday everyone slept.

The GWUSA Greek Organization Community Service Award was presented to Sigma Delta Tau and Sigma Alpha Epsilon. The volleyball tournament was won by Alpha Epsilon Phi and Zeta Beta Tau. The God and Goddess contest was won by the Sigma Nu God, as shown above, and the Phi Sigma Sigma Goddess. The Tug-of-war winner for the sororities, and winner of the infamous "Moosewomen Title," was Sigma Kappa, and for the fraternities, Sigma Nu. The overall 1988 Greek Week champions were Alpha Epsilon Phi and Zeta Beta Tau. Also, congratulations must go to the Greek Week Committee for sponsoring the week's activities, especially to TP, MB and ML.

As we look back at our GW life, it has been one of personal growth, learning, and fun — an adventure shared with friends, our “brothers” and “sisters.” Metaphorically, GWU has been an Odyssey from the shadows of ignorance within Plato’s Cave to the vision of wisdom atop Mount Minerva. It’s been from Thurston, Adams (formerly Calhoun) and Madison Halls or from 2034, 2028 or 2008 G Street to Rice Hall, Gelman Library, the Academic Center, the Smith Center, and the Yard (quad) with weekly deliberations every Sunday night in the Marvin Center, 22nd Street or G Street. And not to mention the untold saga of standing in lines for that oh-so-good Marriott food or perhaps one of those nifty, one hundred and fifty person registration lines. The Class of 1988 has much to be proud of and claim credit for because much of what exists today at GWU — the IFC, Panhellenic Association, The Order of Omega, two fraternities and five NPC sororities, and the new programs that have been implemented by GWUSA, PB, and RHA are the result of the Class of 1988’s hard work, foresight and collective energies. We will forget some of the bad times and miss many of the good times, we have learned from our own and our University’s mistakes and successes. The Odyssey for the Class of 1988 has just begun, with the class members never forgetting their GWU experiences and hoping that the positive aspects of their GWU legacy are being kept alive.

ADAMS (CALHOUN) HALL

Move over guys. Make room for the ladies. The last of all-male residence halls has finally gone co-ed. 2100 "Eye" Street N.W. used to be a place to be feared by the female sect at GW. Now it's only two floors that remain single-sex. Not only has the inside changed, but notice the new nameplate on the outside. Good-bye Calhoun. Hello Adams Hall.

Some people call it the "little fraternity" that isn't a fraternity. What a close-knit bunch they cultivate every year. 2119 H Street N.W. — the heart of campus — held events up the wazoo! There was the safe-sex party, penny drive's for Miriam's Kitchen, a fire safety program, and a Hawaiian Luau party — held on the third floor Marvin Center. Best of all, let us not forget the everyday 'hang-out' sessions on the infamous Crawford benches.

There was a little bit of fall this year at the "Caribbean doored" Everglades Hall. They held a "Harvest Fest," along with snacks 'til 2 on Thursday nights and a semi-formal dance. With the new study rooms, we expect to see some true intelligentsia from 2223 H Street N.W.

Where's the only dorm where you could go to get a Shiatsu massage this year? A residence hall that never gets the recognition that it deserves: Francis Scott Key — named after the man who wrote "The National Anthem." Did you know that there is now a videotape of this building — which stands at 600 20th Street — available to those who wish to view this bastion of GW living? Catch it!

FRANCIS SCOTT KEY HALL

GUTHERIDGE HALL

G. Vargas

What a location! Across from the convenient Foggy Bottom Grocery, right next to the beautiful new tennis courts, and a mere yell from the fire station. It's a veritable country club. It's Gutheridge Hall — 2115 F Street N.W. If you can't live off-campus, some say Gutheridge is the next best thing.

MADISON HALL

They used to call it the "jock" dorm. Now, it's simply Madison, at 736 22nd. Street N.W. After winning first place in the Homecoming contest, Madison is truly a dorm to be reckoned with. Beware of "Club Mad!"

G. Vargas

MILTON HALL

D. Muscillo

This dorm, or should we say residence hall, kept up its sense of community service, just as it does every year. Milton Hall, a hall full of humanitarians and big snackers. What other residence hall hosted so many other late night snacks — i.e. ice cream parties every other night? 2222 “Eye” Street, the “other Munson.”

G. Vargas

It used to be a person could roll right out of bed and buy themselves a six-pack without even walking a block. If they lived in Mitchell Hall that is. Remember Px Liquors? Well, it's a parking lot — C'est la vie. One good thing came to 514 19th. Street N.W., the Courtyard Cafe. It is a good thing. Isn't it . . . ? This single-room residence hall will always hold a special place in the life of GW — Far from campus.

MITCHELL HALL

MUNSON HALL

Where do you live? Is it the one that's closer to the corner? Oh, the other one. Munson Hall, at 2212 "Eye" Street, NW, really has begun to come into its own with its beautiful Christmas decoration and all around holiday cheer. Now isn't that special?

RIVERSIDE TOWERS HALL

It used to be a hotel. Now it's a residence hall, but it might as well be a hotel. You have to know which dorm this is. That's right, it's Riverside at 2201 Virginia Avenue. Who can't help but admit a twinge of jealousy towards Riverside? After all, who else has cable, full kitchens and a club downstairs? Well, at least they weren't stingy. They did often host Pub Nights/Talent Evenings at Riverside Cafe. Perhaps we'll soon be invited back for Riverside Alumni pub nights . . .

STRONG HALL

G. Vargas

Where do we turn for a good example of peace and tranquility on this campus? The last of the female residence halls. Hattie M. Strong Hall, located at 620 21st. Street N.W. has always been a respectable joint where anyone could go to simply relax. Except on those crazy party weekends. Remember those wild Strong Hall parties of years past? AAHH. But no more. Strong Hall is going dry. See you around ladies.

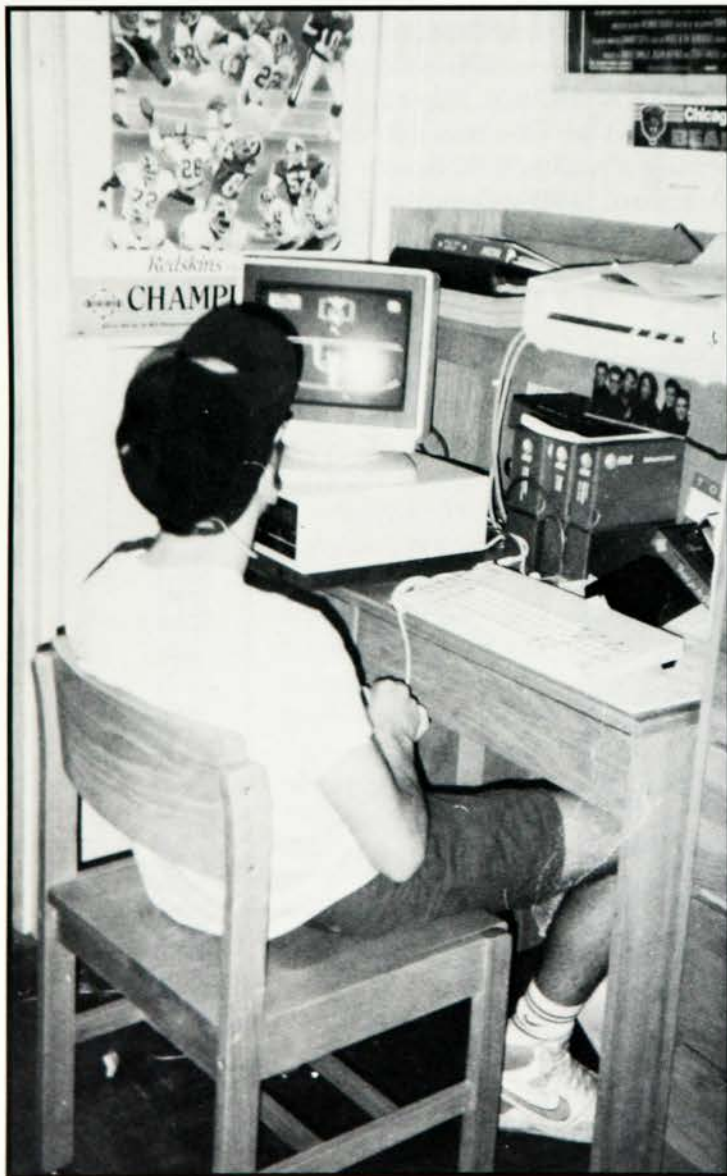

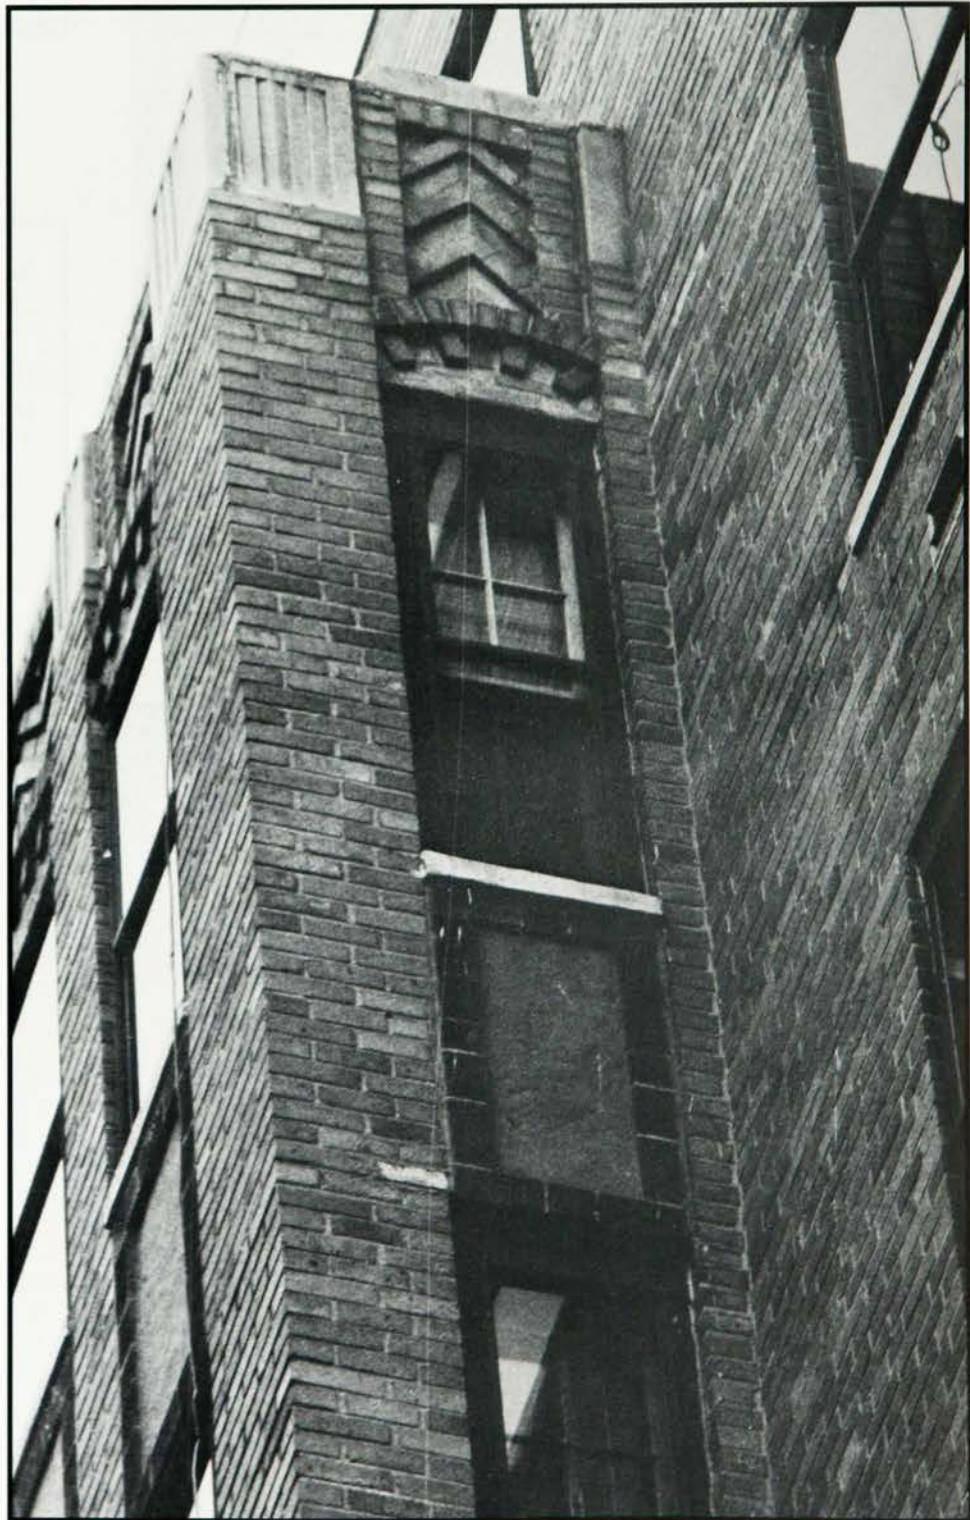

Keep those Pizza's coming, get those fire trucks rolling! Thurston is still around, and now, a feat never before attempted at GW — AN ALL FRESHMAN DORM. Have mercy on us. The Thurston Zoo has become a reality. Watch out Washington! 1900 F Street never stood like this before.

LIFE ON THE STREETS . . . Our Homeless

The plight of the homeless is not a problem indigenous to Washington, D.C. One can find the homeless in every city. As a participant in the GW Community, one can not help but notice the horrors of life on the street every day.

We all have our names for those people we have seen on the street throughout our years here. We also have a deep feeling of regret at not being able to help them all.

The problem was especially apparent this year as Washington saw much activity in the way of aid for the homeless.

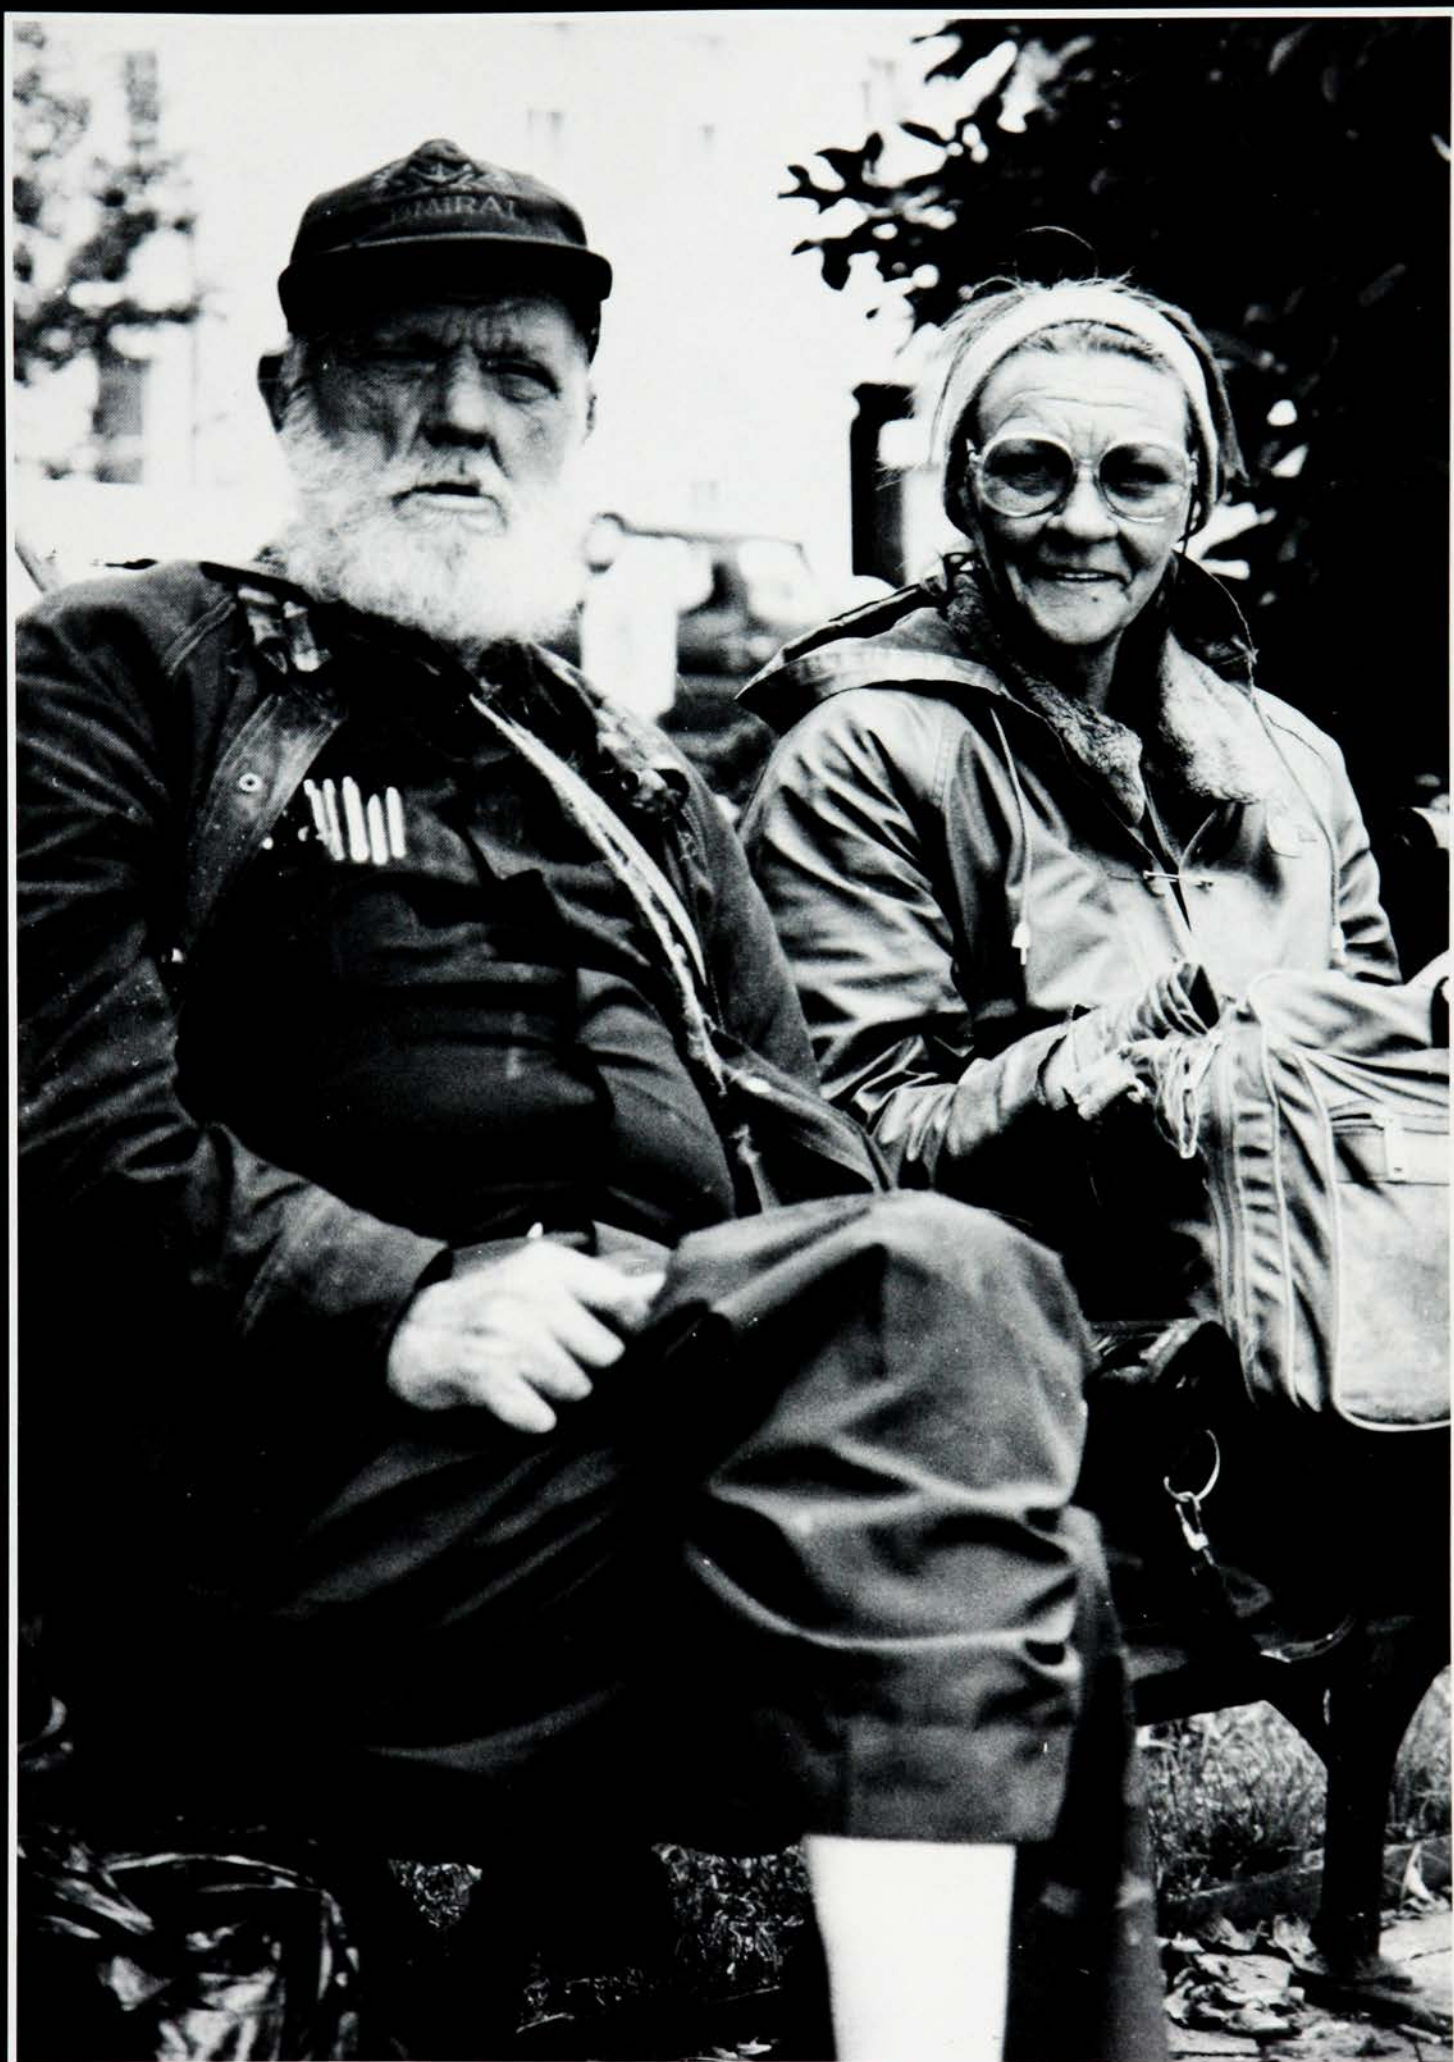

Not only was Mitch Snider and his followers a great focus of attention this year, but also Miriam's Kitchen played an important role — as it does every year. This year, they managed to raise more money than in previous years, an accomplishment which lead them to be able to reach out and help more of the city's homeless population.

These few photographs serve as a subtle reminder of a great problem. One which will not go away by itself. Perhaps with the continued support of Miriam's Kitchen and with the work of Mitch Snyder these scenes will become less of a regularity. Whenever and wherever you see the homeless, take a moment to reflect, and be thankful always for what you have.

— Julie Jaffe

“There are 10 to 15,000 homeless people in D.C. and estimates say that there are as many as 3 million homeless people nationwide.

People need to recognize and accept the fact that the homeless are human beings. Too often they are regarded as invisible, a non-entity. It is more convenient to walk by, but it is helpful to say hello.”

NEMESIS

Yesterday, a crew coach at George Mason, noting the name of our boat said, "That's a great name for a boat." NEMESIS. Over the past several years, GW athletes — particularly women athletes — have proven that GW isn't a pushover when it comes to athletics.

We are our rivals Nemesis.

We may not receive the support we deserve from the university community at large, but we are not here to please crowds. We are here to compete, to win and to succeed at both athletics and academics. Wrestling's 8th place finish at Easterns, squash's East Coast Collegiate Championship title, top 10 seeding in the Atlantic Ten by men's and women's soccer, women's basketball and gymnastics and the Small College National Championship title held by the women's lightweight crew attest to this.

With the potential, depth and ability to perform, which GW athletes have shown, the only reason for not laying hold to more team titles should be that we were beaten by better teams not that we did not perform to the best of our ability.

About this time what comes to mind is where to go, what path to find. Should graduate school be what I chose or should I work for U.S. News? Where will I live, where should I go? So many questions how can we know? Whatever should happen, we always know this, it's the good times at GW we will truly miss.

Back in 1984, there were Seniors in high school who dreamt of the day when they would once again hurl their caps high at an event which we call graduation. Back in 1984, 1988 seemed worlds away. The only thought in their minds was what to do for the summer? It seems that before any of them knew in, 1984 came and went and 1988 was upon them. Once again they hurled their caps and lost their tassels. Congratulations Graduates of George Washington University — 1988!

Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Life. That is what we leave here with. A smattering of this, indepth knowledge of that and a better sense of ourselves and who we are. Four years at this institute of higher learning have provided us with that competitive edge — be it at home or abroad.

Call it college, or call it university. We'll all call it GW — our bastion of higher education. Four years ago (or so) most of came to GW with little notion of what to expect. Today, we leave here with something more than that which we left high school with. Maturity and knowledge are on our side. We have come through a four year learning experience and have had the benefit of growing mentally and emotionally.

Can this be true? Our mecca of men, our hall of hunks, our building for boys gone from our campus. Alas, this is so. Calhoun hall has gone co-ed and with that, changed its name to Adams Hall. Is there nothing sacred?

Domino's Pizza, Mike speaking. O.K. That'll be ready in 30 minutes — 11:47 p.m. How many of us will remember late nights spent dialing 223- ? Then there was Blue Diamond Chinese — pint or quart? How many of us recall Campus Delivery? There's a blast from the past — make sure to bring a pint of Hershey's chocolate chip ice cream. There was a place called PTA — Pizza Transit Authority — and how about Cosmo's. That was when we were young and carefree (and broke!). Now the question is — Dominique's anyone?

Every year has its excitement and its memories. How can we forget coming into GW with Reagan's second inaugural year and going out with Gorbachev's visit. There certainly was the usual turmoil during our four year term here as well. Our sophomore year recalls the shuttle disaster and junior year saw the burning of the U.S. Embassy in Russia. Every year has its excitement and memories — what will you take your you from GW?

“Guys! Guys let’s go. We have to meet those guys at Gelman. They’re going to be in the fifth floor fishbowl.” Going to Gelman was always an experience. If you wanted to socialize, there was the basement, the fourth floor and the fifth. If you really wanted to have fun, there were the group study rooms. And for the serious student there were the stacks. Well, that’s changed now. The basement is quieter, the stacks are empty and the third floor — boy is it buzzing. “Sssh, I’m trying to study.”

Hamburgers galore is what is on the menu at the Bon. Bon Appetit that is. There can't be even one among us who hasn't been in there once, even if it was for a giant cup of coffee and a huge muffin. How many of you will dream at night of No. 2 — The Greek with feta cheese and olives, or No. 11 — Robert with mushrooms, onions and A1 sause. Even the vegetarian sect could be satisfied with a tuna sandwich or a cheese sub. Maybe they'll begin a mail order Service like the one at White Castle. Anyway, there's always Little Tavern.

Halloween in Georgetown is always an interesting experience. Many people stop going after the first two years — as you get older you begin to fear big crowds more? But we will always remember the crazy costumes we saw. How about the six-pack that walked down the street? Or the spider on wheels. M Street and Wisconsin Ave turn into a Mardi Gras scene. It's like little New Orleans in the heart of Northwest Washington.

Kappa Sigma, Sigma Chi, Sigma Nu etc . . . These past two years saw a fraternity and sorority boom. Never before, at least during these four years, had we ever seen so much Greek activity. Could the change in the drinking age have something to do with this? Is it just the attraction that Greek life has to offer? Whatever it is, we wish good luck to the campus Greeks. Keep it clean kids

Kangaroos, llamas, tigers, bears. They've got it all at the National Zoo. How many slow Saturdays were spent roaming through the Elephant house or passing by the Hippo-hole? Woodley Park metro stop, with the escalator to heaven, was where we got off to get re-introduced to wild life — as if the GW parties weren't enough. The National Zoo, by the way, is the last place we know of where you can still get a snow cone. And where else can you see a dik-dik running free?

Late nights studying always meant late nights eating candy and drinking coffee. Thank goodness for the candy machines in the residence halls. Imagine life at Thurston without quick access to Kit Kats, ice cream sandwiches or Diet Coke. When studying failed, snacks with David Letterman always provided fun. When the microwave arrived, the popcorn truly become an all-time favorite. Thank goodness for junk food!

Marvin Center. The next best thing to a student Center at GW. What other building at GW holds as much excitement? There is bowling and beer on the fifth floor, student activities on the fourth, the ballroom — for registration — as well as the University Club on three, Saga's wonderful cafeteria on two and finally market square as well as Dorothy Betts Memorial Theater on one. Oh yes, we can't forget snacks, studies and magazines and the bookstore on G. The Cloyd Heck Marvin Center is truly a modern wonder.

Metro. A name no Washingtonian nor any visitor to Washington will ever forget. The cleanest subway system which makes its home between Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia. It's a quick trip to National Airport and a short ride in another direction to Union Station. The Foggy Bottom/GWU stop along with Farragut West will always ring a bell in our minds. Nowhere else in the United States can you find a bigger collection of museums in such a concentrated area. Where else can you get into a museum for free? Washington is a city of education and culture. It is home to more important monuments than you can imagine. Simply take the Metro to Smithsonian and a world of knowledge opens at your feet.

Parking at GW has never been a pleasure. Admit it. You've got two-hundred dollars worth of parking tickets that you have collected over your four years here. If you don't have tickets, then you have receipts from Colonial parking garage charges that you multiply each month. If you're not careful, your car could get the boot. Wouldn't it have been easier to walk?

Peach Yogurt? That sounds horrible. It wasn't until one year after we arrived here that SAGA installed frozen yogurt machines. They came after repeated requests for the frozen delight. Yet, when it arrived, complaints arose over the choice of flavor. Perhaps that is justified. After all, who ever heard of Peach Peanut Butter Surprise?

Reagan/Gorbachev — The Summit. Well, we had the chance but we blew it, didn't we? The press chose GW's Smith Center as its headquarters during the summit meetings here in D.C. But GW chose to say no. We sent them off to find greener pastures. Suddenly, we had our shot at fame but we let it go in order to save our academic livelihood. Some say this was a good idea. Others disagree. You decide.

Sunday, 1pm. You wake up with little socks on each of your teeth and wonder, "how did I end up with my feet on my pillow? You roll over and notice that it's raining out. The only thing that will cure this hang-over is a quick trip to Cheese & Bottle for a bagel with gobs of cream cheese. You pull your legs out of bed one at a time, and suddenly it hits you. Oh no, you forgot about the big Monday morning Econ exam. And thus runs the typical Sunday morning in the life of the GW student. Thank goodness for Alka Seltzer.

Spring Fling is always an event to be reckoned with at GW. We will all be able to look back and reminisce with our famous fling frisbees. No matter what you used it for, it did and always will serve as a reminder of such groups as David Johanssen, Trouble Funk, the Ventures and other big name stars. Never again will we see so much free flowing beer, cotton candy and pretzels in one small grassy area — otherwise know as “the quad.” Wherever you go, whenever you see the moon-walk may your thoughts be filled with GW Spring Fling’s past.

Tower Records. Did you think we could write about anything else for the letter T? It's a veritable cornucopia of audio/video paraphernalia. Can you think of any other store in Washington that stays open every night until 12am? What better form of procrastination was there than a quick trip to Cone E. Island followed by a slow stroll through the Tower of music and video heaven. The selection ranges from Beethoven to the Dead Milkmen, and from Annie Hall to Friday the 13th part 6. Don't forget your last stop on this little jaunt to put off your school work. You probably stopped by and said hello to "Manoosh" and grabbed yourself a dog. You enjoyed it while you knew you'd probably regret it later.

Washington, George. The monument, the man, the myth, the university. Whenever you hear the name Washington, don't think first of "Welcome Back Kotter" think instead of your alma mater. We all chose this school for one reason or another just as we shall choose to stay in this city or move on. No matter where we go, however, Washington, D.C., will always serve as a second home for us. We know its streets, its bars, its shopping and its culture. When we choose to visit it again, we will not visit it as tourists but rather as old friends. To us, this city is not simply the nation's capital, it is also a melting pot of memories.

Years ago, a child was born and it came in to the world wondering what college it would go to. And then it grew and it went to The George Washington University. That child was you, and baby look at you now. After hard years of work and a lot of money spent, you have earned the title of graduate. Yes, you are an alumnus. We hope that you all achieve great success in your endeavors and that you continue to be the best you can be. Congratulations and best of luck to the graduates of The George Washington University, 1988.

Dear Dawn,

You did it, and we're so proud ! We know it wasn't easy, but you never let that stop you - and you certainly finished in grand style.

You're a very special young lady with a zest for life that never tires. Your radiance and laughter brighten a day.

There is no doubt that you will attain whatever you set your sights on.

Go for it !!!

We love you,

To our daughter — Paula Metallo

You are living proof that miracles do happen. It happened to us when we had a daughter like you. Sometimes love is shown in different ways: sometimes in hugs and happiness and sometimes in harsh words. We have tried to teach the basics of life to you and you have not disappointed us. You have the ability to achieve whatever you want and go in any direction you choose in life. Remember — wherever you go or whatever you do, you always have a place to come home to and parents who love and believe in you. Every now and then, remember these words — “We always want the best for you and we love you very much.”

Always,

Mom and Dad

P.S. Paula, you're the greatest and I love you too!

Well the yearbook is finished. What now? After living and breathing CHERRY TREE for four years, I have grown rather attached to this place. I won't bore you with the details of my yearbook experience, except to say that I have learned a lot and have had a great time doing it. This yearbook symbolizes the finished product of four years here at the George Washington University. And as a finished product, I hope it represents the 1987-1988 school year and generally amuses you. That is all I have to say about the yearbook itself. (If you couldn't tell I am slightly burned out on yearbook — which I guess is natural after two weeks of continuous work on the book.)

Now I would like to say a few words about GW. Any school one chooses to go to, whether it be here or Harvard (much has been said about the "Harvardization" of GW) it is up to the individual to make the college experience fun. I have enjoyed GW immensely and hope the university continues to grow. When I say grow I do not mean property wise, but grow in its concern for student life. I believe in GW PRIDE.

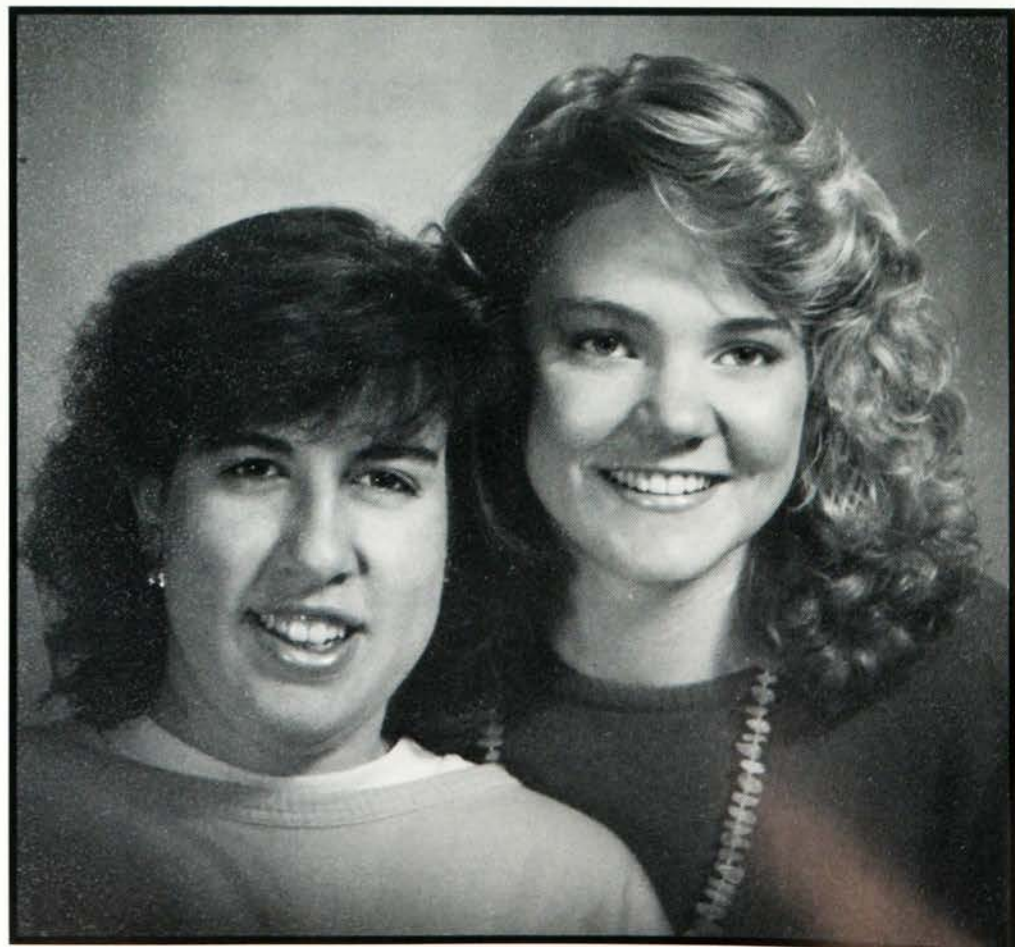

Last, but not least, I would like to personally thank Mom and Dad for supporting me both monetarily and emotionally. (I hope after looking through the book you think your time and energy was well spent. I love you.) To my roommate and best friend for the past four years — Julie, thanks for the laughs, support, and help. You're daul!

I wish the Class of 1988 the best of luck!

— Liz Hewitt

And the current fashions set the pace.
Lose your step fall out of grace.
And the radical, he rant and rage.
Singing, "Someone got to turn the page."
With the rich man in his summer home
Singing, "Just leave well enough alone."
Well, his pants are down, his cover's blown.
